New steps taken for campus security

The key to a safe Kendall Green is the active participation of all students, faculty, and staff in crime prevention and awareness and the increased presence of the D.C. police—not a security force armed with potentially dangerous guns, said Fred Kendrick, who was recently appointed director of the Department of Safety and Security (DOSS).

Kendrick, who is also director of the University's Physical Plant Department, said that neither the Carl Dupree case nor the possible impact on insurance rates affected the decision to disarm DOSS officers.

Kendrick wants DOSS to be more pro-active and visible in securing the campus and to work with the community in preventing crime. He also intends to involve the metropolitan police to a greater extent. Kendrick said he recently met the deputy chief for the Fifth District and was promised rapid response to calls for help.

In addition, the three D.C. patrol units assigned to the area around Gallaudet will drive through the campus grounds more frequently and patrol the area more heavily.

Four D.C. police officers began taking intensive sign language classes at Gallaudet April 7. More personnel from the Fifth District will participate in sign language training later.

Gallaudet security also is implementing improved measures to enhance campus security, Kendrick said. All people entering the campus between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. now must show identification. The Sixth Street parking lot is now watched by an officer from 4 to 10 p.m. Lighting will be improved on campus where necessary.

Gallaudet security officers will increase their patrols of buildings and grounds. "I want people to get back into building checks and dorm checks and become visible on the rounds in all areas," Kendrick said.

In addition to the television camera that will be installed at Fowler Hall to monitor the front gate, two cameras monitoring the west and east side of campus will be installed soon.

Because 80 to 90 percent of the crime at Gallaudet is committed by people who live or work here, Ken-

Improved service is goal of GIS

Denise Sullivan, the University's director of human resources, has been appointed interim director of Gallaudet Interpreting Services (GIS).

Sullivan said that her main objective is to improve GIS's service delivery, which she plans to do by developing guidelines and procedures and improving relationships with interpreters and the community.

Sullivan said that Vice President for Administration and Business Paul Kelly is offering his full support in accomplishing these objectives.

GIS provided more than 50,000 hours of interpreting services in 1991, and the number is expected to increase this year. To ensure that requests for interpreters can be honored, GIS has added nine interpreters to its staff: Bill Adams, Jeffrey Bowden, Steven Collins, Jennifer Douglas, Jeffrey Hardison, John Lewis, Mary Lightfoot, Phyllis Rogers, and Gregory Singfield.

JohnMark Ennis, senior interpreter and interpreting specialist, provides interpreting services primarily for President I. King Jordan.

GIS also wants to increase its pool

Commencement week events slated

Gallaudet's 123rd commencement exercises will be held on Friday, May 8, at 1 p.m. in the Field House. The address to the 1992 graduating class will be presented by Kenneth Bertacini, president of consumer products for AT&T, Parsippany, N.J. An estimated 360 students will receive degrees.

Faculty will assemble in Hughes Gymnasium at 12:30 p.m. Friends and family are asked to be in their seats by 12:45 p.m. Doors to the Field House will open at noon.

An old Gallaudet tradition that was revived last year of two graduating students addressing their fellow graduates will be continued this year.

An honorary doctor of laws degree will be awarded to the Honorable Steve Gunderson (R-Wisc.), who serves on Gallaudet's Board of Trustees, in recognition of his work on the Americans with Disabilities Act and for his efforts to make telephones and televisions more accessible to deaf people.

Award-winning deaf actress and Gallaudet alumna Phyllis Frelich ('67) will receive an honorary doctor of fine arts degree in recognition of her distinguished acting career, which includes a 1985 Emmy nomination for her work in the Hallmark Hall of Fame film "Love is Never Silent" and a Tony award in 1980 for her portrayal of Sarah in "Children of a Lesser God."

Dr. Shuichi Obata, a professor at Tsukuba College of Technology of Japan, which is located in Tsukuba-Shi Ibaraki-ken, will be awarded the degree of doctor of humane letters. Obata was the driving force behind the establishment of the Tsukuba University Junior College for Deaf People, the first college for deaf people in Japan and the first college for deaf people outside the United States.

Professor emeritus status will be awarded to Dr. Kurt Beermann, a former history professor and senior professor who retired from the University last December, and Dr. Eugene McVicker, a former professor in the Department of Philosophy and Religion, who retired in 1987.

Preceding the commencement ceremony will be a brunch from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the University cafeteria. The brunch is open to the public, and tickets are $7.50 per person. Following commencement, a reception will be held under a tent on the mall adjacent to Ely Center.

The Graduate Hooding and Awards Ceremony will be held on Thursday, May 7, at 4 p.m. in Elstad Auditorium. The speaker for the ceremony will be Dr. Don Bangs, the present holder of the University's Powrie V. Doctor Chair of Deaf Studies. A reception will follow under the tent on the mall.

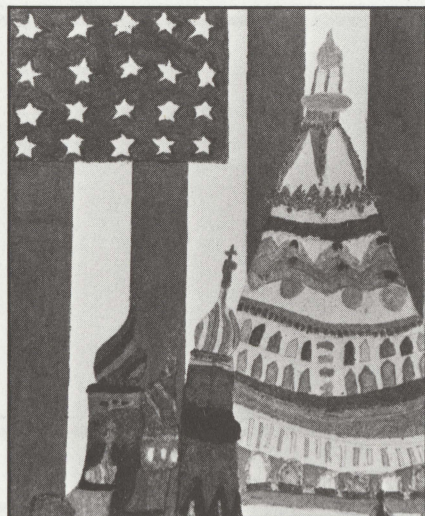

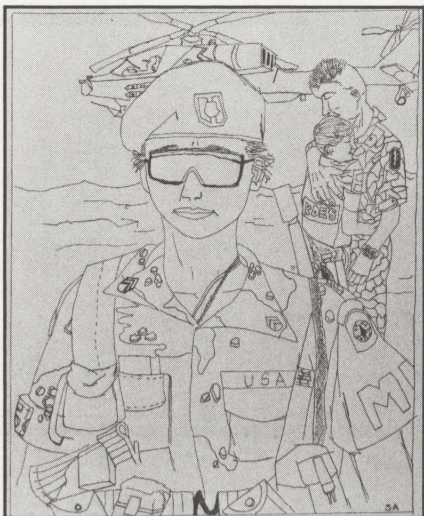

Other commencement week activities include a ribbon-cutting ceremony at noon on May 6 at College Hall to note the completion of the major renovation of the historic building.

At 5 p.m. on May 6, a plaque dedication will be held outside the board room in the Edward Miner Gallaudet Building in recognition of donations made in the names of deceased alumni.

The Board of Trustees will meet on Kendall Green May 7 and 8.

Secretaries' Day activities planned

The President's Office will recognize the contributions of the University's approximately 145 secretaries at a reception on national Professional Secretaries' Day—Wednesday, April 22—from 3 to 5 p.m. in Chapel Hall. A workshop, announced in the spring Staff Development Program brochure as "How to Manage Your Boss," also is planned. The activities are part of Professional Secretaries' Week, which is April 19 to 25. ## Art exhibit shows child's perspective

The profound effect that the Persian Gulf War had on the world tends to focus on the adult point of view, frequently overlooking the impact that the conflict had on children.

Adults will be able to gain an understanding of how the war affected children—specifically, deaf children—through viewing a multimedia exhibit opening May 6 at Kendall Gallery, located at Kendall Demonstration Elementary School.

"1991, The Year in Pictures . . . A Child's Perspective" was created by deaf children at KDES ages 5 to 14 mainly to express their feelings about the Persian Gulf War but also includes their perception about the recent upheaval in the former Soviet Union.

The exhibit features approximately 80 photographs, paintings, prints, and drawings and a 17-minute slide presentation synchronized to music. In addition, four video monitors will display a condensed documentary of the Persian Gulf War and the new Russian revolution.

Desert Storm veterans from the Army, Navy, Air Force, and the Marines will be present at the art opening to share their experiences and to entertain questions. Members of the armed forces corresponded with KDES students by mail throughout the conflict and many of these letters will be on display.

At the opening of the exhibit, which will be from 7-10:30 p.m., a color guard representing branches of the United States military will perform a ceremony at 7:15 p.m. Refreshments will also be served following the program, which is open to the campus community.

According to Phil Bogdan, KDES Art Program instructor, "The level of maturity it took to create a major body of work, produced by the students on their own at home, during class, and during lunch and recess, astounds me. Their sensitivity, discipline, dedication, and drive truly shows."

"1991, The Year in Pictures . . . A Child's Perspective" will be on display through May 28. For this exhibit, Kendall Gallery will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and will be closed on weekends.

'Grease' to open at MSSD in May

The Model Secondary School for the Deaf's auditorium will serve as a vehicle for a journey back to the 1950s, where poodle skirts, clam diggers, leather jackets, D.A. haircuts, and hot rods were the order of the day.

Yes, "Grease" is the word. The rollicking musical comedy about the drive-in generation will be performed by a cast of 125 deaf, hard of hearing, and hearing teenagers and adults at MSSD on May 7, 8, 9, 14, 15, and 16 at 8 p.m., and May 8, 13, and 15 at 10 a.m.

The show will be produced by MSSD's Performing Arts Program in cooperation with Pennvisions, which provides training and performance opportunities for local young people who are developmentally disabled, physically challenged, or at risk. "Grease" marks the second collaboration between the two groups.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. For reservations or additional information, call x5466.

Security changes now under way

Kendrick plans to implement training programs to teach students, faculty, and staff throughout Kendall Green "why it is important to lock doors if leaving rooms and offices for brief periods, and what actions should be taken in specific cases or incidents involving people in the dormitories, offices, or buildings."

Kendrick hopes to increase involvement of students by using more students in the escort service, increasing student awareness of how drug and alcohol use contributes to campus crime, teaching students more about prevention and reporting of sexual assault and date rape, and improving the dormitory watch program.

Kendrick is creating a new "crime prevention specialist" position. The specialist will be responsible for working closely with student groups and DOSS to develop prevention initiatives.

Kendrick is optimistic the campus community will become more involved in ensuring campus security, judging from the calls he has received.
